Global Analytics Joins Star Analytics StarPartners Program

*Mutual Customers Achieve Maximum Business Value with Financial Data Integration Solutions
Built on the Star Integration Server*

SAN MATEO, Calif., March 26, 2009 – Global Analytics, a leading provider of Business Performance Management Solutions, today announced it has joined the Star Analytics StarPartners Program. As a partner, Global Analytics is offering Star Analytics Star Integration Server as the financial data integration platform within its Oracle and SAP practices.

The combined solution offers customers a simple and cost-effective way to access valuable financial data from within their Oracle Hyperion planning applications. By automating the process of unifying and sharing the underlying data, calculations and business assumptions within these applications, Star Integration Server eliminates costly manual programming approaches that are difficult to maintain.

“We are very excited to join the StarPartners program,” said Wayne Andrighetti, vice president of Global Analytics. “Star Analytics Star Integration Server will allow our clients to easily integrate data from disparate sources at a low cost of ownership. We look forward to implementing Star Integration Server for our clients.”

“This program allows partners to enhance and differentiate their solutions with a platform that is rapidly becoming the standard for financial data integration,” said Suzanne Hoffman, vice president of Sales and Marketing at Star Analytics. “In an economy where profitability and agility are crucial to success, we’re pleased to partner with a leader like Global Analytics in helping joint customers drive greater value from their Oracle Hyperion investments.”

Momentum Builds

The StarPartners Program is a global network of leading value-added resellers (VARs), systems integrators, independent software vendors (ISVs) and consulting companies dedicated to helping the installed base of thousands of Oracle Hyperion customers extend the benefits of their applications. Star Analytics offers comprehensive services and resources to boost partner success, including sales and marketing tools, technical and sales training workshops, elearning programs, early access to products, advanced technical support and participation in exclusive customer events.
